Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 12 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny and cold today. Turning wet tomorrow.

Today:
A cloudy start with a little frost and ice possible in the north. Cloud will clear to leave a dry and sunny day for all with mainly light winds, although it will be breezier along North Sea coasts. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
A widespread frost soon developing overnight under clear and starry skies. Cloud will steadily increase through the early hours, but it will remain dry. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Wednesday:
Starting bright in the east, but quickly clouding over with outbreaks of rain spreading to most areas by midday. Cold for many, but milder in the southwest later. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Rain, heavy at times continuing through Thursday, but gradually easing. Dry and bright on Friday after a frosty and icy start. Further rain likely on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.